Still Need for Vigilance

'Nepszabadsag' of 15th October drew up a balance sheet of the last 12 months. "Hungary is not yet a paradise on earth, but we are strongly convinced that we can make a paradise out of it. Even without the use of such pompous phrases it is true to say that food supplies are better than they have been since the liberation, and never before has the population bought so many industrial articles. There is not a single person whose income has not been substantially increased...

"Last October treason and hesitation were the enemy's main allies. Henceforth the enemy can and should be convinced that these allies no longer exist." Morale of the army and the public order forces was excellent. "The mouthpieces of the enemy have often advised us to discard revolutionary vigilance. This is a wrong and outdated idea. We do not even consider it. We are vigilant and we shall be even more vigilant in the future. As to order and the security of the people's State, there will be no discussion, concession or mercy..."
