An underground Soviet airport is located on the Muntele Mic, 12 km from the village of BORLOVA in the region of CARAN-SEBES.

This underground airport was built on a plateau in the mountain in 1950. The contractor was the LUGOJ No.5 branch of the Soviet-Rumanian "Sovromconstructia" company. Now in operation, the airport is used exclusively by the Soviet airforce. Nearby, underground depots for fuel and bombs are provided.

The airport and the surrounding area are off limits to civilians. Strong Rumanian military units patrol the region and ensure the security of the airport and its depots.
