MILITARY AIRFIELD AT CARACAL

Approximately 10 km from the town of CARACAL a big military airfield with a five kilometer concrete runway has been constructed.

In July 1951, heavy rains hampered the progress of the works, especially with regard to the difficulty encountered in the transportation of the required material. The workers employed there, joking on the delay, said that the works should go on, come what may, in order to have the airfield ready for the use of the Americans upon their arrival. In August 1951 the airfield was near its completion.

The construction of another big military airfield is reported in the vicinity of ROSIORI DE VEDE. The work is in its initial stage.
